Casetify Marketing Plan

The main business of Casetify is mobile phone cases, although the whole market is small, as an emerging industry, it has great potential and is competitive. In the electronics market, Casetify doesn't have a big market share, but in the mobile phone protective cover market, it's in the leadership position. Since it's a pretty mature brand, in this marketing plan, I will point out what problems are in front of Casetify and the solutions, and for those existing strategies, I will offer new ideas about how to make them better. I also set goals and KPIs to see if the new marketing plan works.

First, Casetify is a company that produces phone cases and electronic accessories. The global net sales in 2023 are 276.9 million dollars. Since Casetify also has products such as cables, chargers, and so on, we can put it into the electronics market to see its performance. In the Electronics market in the United States, casetify.com is ranked #41 with over 100 million dollars in 2023. Therefore, casetify.com accounts for less than 5.0% of the market share in this category. It seems that it's a small market share, but here the top stores are amazon.com, apple.com, and walmart.com. Therefore, in competing with those big online electronics shopping platforms, Casetify has already done a great job.

However, I would still like to put Casetify in the mobile phone protective coverage market because that's what Casetify's main business is. From the data of April 2024, Casetify had a revenue of 9.6 million dollars, while other competitors like Burga, case-mate, and Velvetcaviar each had a lower 2.8M, 1M, and 785.8K dollar revenue. Those data show that Casetify is in the mobile phone protective cover market leadership position, and has a big market share. Also, the market itself is competitive. The global Mobile Phone Protective Cover market size in 2023 is 23616.2 million dollars, and the CAGR from 2024 to 2030 is 8.4%. We can conclude that it's strong positive growth forecasted, but also a competitive industry.

After reviewing the current situation of the company and market, we should do a SWOT analysis to look in detail at the reasons that put Casetify into the current position. First, as for the strengths of Casetify, the phone cases have good quality that can protect phones from being smashed, and they collaborate with talented graphic designers which ensures the quality of graphics. Also, Casetify is keen to collaborate with celebrities and influencers. By giving them free phone cases and even mobile phones and asking them to take pictures to post on social media, Casetify can attract more customers who are fans or love chasing popular trends. But there are still weaknesses. The prices of phone cases are higher than normal phone cases brand and are usually over people's expectations. The Customer Satisfaction (CSAT) score has decreased from 95% to 91% in February 2024. Also, there are a lot of counterfeit products in the market that have similar protective abilities but are much cheaper. However, some opportunities are here for Casetify. For example, the company can find more talented designers to make a more unique design that is difficult to replicate, and it can consider expanding more product categories. Finally, as for the threats, Casetify is in a competitive and unstable market, so it's possible that people suddenly don't like it anymore because of their constantly changing preferences or other competitors' more innovative designs.

Before moving to the specific tactics to solve the problems and offer new ideas, I set the goals of my new marketing plan here. First, the marketing plan should maintain Casetify's high brand equity in the protective covers market. At the same time, it should acquire more customers and increase its market share.

The target customers are fashionable young generations, and they usually have considerable economic strength so they can afford phone cases that are not cheap. The target collaborators are Graphic designers, Celebrities, and social media Influencers, but it's obvious that designers have different responsibilities here from celebrities and influencers. As for the competitors, there are a lot of designer brands similar to Casetify: wildflower, urban sophistication, Burga, velvet caviar, Otterbox, case-mate, etc. And there are luxury brands like Prada that produce phone cases with good design and quality. The mobile phone brands also produce phone cases. If you go to an Apple store, you can see a lot of traditional and original phone cases there. And some brands whose main business is not phone cases also join this track. For example, Rhode is a make-up brand, but recently, they produced a kind of phone case with lipstick in the back, which attracted a lot of customers. In addition, the Casetify company itself is in a trendy position. By constantly exploring new designers and cooperating with them, sending new products to celebrities and influencers to ask them to promote, purchasing Casetify has become a popular trend among young generations. Lastly, Casetify creates a context for customers that they enjoy the feeling of using the same products as celebrities and posting pictures to social media, so Casetify provides the chance for them.

Next, the value propositions can help the company position itself and be more clear about what's the current issue that is attracting customers. Company Value Proposition: Casetify is an electronics protective cover brand known for its high protective quality and fashionable design, unlike other competitors, it offers a wide range of options for both graphics and phone models, more same styles as celebrities, and self-customization opportunities. Customer Value Proposition: For young generations who care about popular trends and fashion, unlike other phone case retailers or small companies, Casetify provides styles that match people's tastes around the world. Collaborator Value Proposition: For designers and artists, Casetify provides a job opportunity and the possibility of long-term collaboration. For co-brands, Casetify provides celebrities, animes, and other IPs a win-win situation in that they can get free phone cases or even mobile phones, and free promotion exposure, and Casetify can also attract more customers.

After understanding the situation of the company and market, and the factors behind it, I will give proposals and tactics aimed at the existing problems. As for the products itself, I think the company should improve from four aspects. In order to increase popularity, the company can create scarcity by Launching Limited Products. For example, in big cities like NYC, LA, Shanghai, Seoul, etc, they can offer city-limited products to attract local customers. Second, many people complain about the heavy weight of the phone case and want a new lighter-weight design. But while making the phone case itself lighter, the protective ability should not be diminished. What's more, customers want a kind of material that won't make scratch easily. Although the mirror cases have achieved this point, other products still need improvement. The last point is that customers want to restore the past colorful frames and use appropriate material that won't turn yellowish. Many customers used to complain that the colorful frames would turn yellowish, so the company took them off the shelf and replaced them with black frames, but the fact is customers prefer the combination of past graphics with colorful frames, so the company should find a better material instead of taking colorful ones off the shelf directly.

As for the service, one example I want to mention is some Chinese customers think the collaboration with the National Museum of Korea didn't show respect for Chinese culture because the company claims that the flower graphics are from Korea, but they should have originated from Chinese landscape painting. If I stand at the perspective of Casetify, according to the data, the Chinese market is big and important, Casetify should at least give an appropriate explanation to those Chinese customers who mentioned the problem. Therefore, in terms of services, the company should constantly watch the feedback from the market and do better in customer service to maintain its brand equity.

Also, in pricing, the current problem is the imbalance of pricing in different country markets. In social media, a lot of customers have noticed that the selling price of Casetify in the Asia market is slightly higher than in the US market. Therefore, the price should be set equally in different countries and markets, or the price setting should be dependent on the purchasing power of the different areas and the value of the currency. For example, in places with a higher purchasing power but a lower value of currency, the products can receive a slightly lower price to reach small profits but quick turnover.

To motivate sales, the current promotions are free shipping worldwide for orders $40 or above, Monthly promotions, and no membership program or subscription fees. Therefore, I will mention several ways to give customers incentives to engage more. First, the company can establish a membership program. For example, members can receive gifts/invitations to offline campaigns when they make a certain number of purchases, or they can have early access to new products when they first come out. And the company can hold some offline workshops, for example, people can walk into the store to design their own phone case and make it right away. In addition, designer/celebrity/collaborator pop-up stores are a great way to attract customers to go to the stores and increase the possibility of making an order. The last strategy is the company can consider expanding product lines. Besides phone cases, they can make clothes, furniture, etc.

One last tactic is in finding new ways of communication. Although there are already some ways of communication with the customers such as social media exposure like advertisement and influencer promotion, live stream commerce is a trend that will attract more customers. Another phenomenon is after signing up, no more following emails were sent to customers to constantly remind them what new products or promotions they had, so the company can make personalized emails and send customized recommendations and promotions based on the customer's purchase history and interests. They can also send regular newsletters to send brand news, product updates, and special offers to keep customers engaged. Finally, the Casetify is lack of storytelling. If they can tell a good story, they can connect the emotions of customers with the brand, and increase the customer life value by making customers's interests deeper. For example, Casetify can make videos to tell the story behind a certain product, including the process of idea generation and production.

The last thing I want to mention is the implementation plan and evaluation. In Phase 1, aim at the existing problems in Product, Service, and Pricing, and do market research to determine the specific rectification ways. In Phase 2, implement trial runs for the new measures mentioned in the Incentives and Communication. And in Phase 3, review the earnings and set goals for the next year at the end of 2024. If we want to examine whether the new marketing plan works, KPIs should be set. At the end of the year 2024, Casetify can ask customers to do a survey to see whether the Customer Satisfaction (CSAT) score increases from 91% in February 2024 back to 95% or higher at the end of 2024 and whether the 2024 global net sales are over the $276.9M of 2023, and see whether Casetify maintains its leadership position in the mobile phone protective cover market.
